

THE YETIS ARRIVE

One moonlit night, a clan of furry yetis climbed out of their boat in front of an enormous cliff like building.

They slipped inside and ran up and down the hanging staircase, laughing at the sound of their yeti-roars echoing around the huge hall.

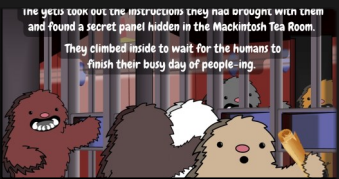

There were so many things to see, they hardly knew where to start looking.

They were really excited when they came across a huge exhibition all about Tartan. They knew a little bit about tartan in 'People History' because yetis live in clans all over the world.

They were just about to go in when Rory stopped them. "We'd better find where we're going to stay. Look, the sun is coming up and we need to be hidden before people come back to work."

The yetis took out the instructions they had brought with them and found a secret panel hidden in the Mackintosh Tea Room. They climbed in to wait for the humans to finish their busy day of people-ing.

When they had settled in, the yetis talked about what they might find inside the Tartan Exhibition the next night.

What do you think they might find???
